$20,000 MORE FOR COLLEGE

President Granville Reports that Much More Secured Since Commencement. Town People Subscribing Liberally.

Those who have been watching with much interest and satisfaction the campaign to raise for Gettysburg College the large sum of $180,000 to make available the $50,000 promised by the General Education Board, representing John D. Rockefeller, will be glad to know that only $70,000 of the amount remains to be promised and the time for raising this does not expire until next June.

At commencement time this year Dr. Granville told of the progress of the big campaign and was able to tell at that time that only $90,000 yet remained to be collected. Since commencement the work has been prosecuted with such vigor and success, however, that $20,000 more has been raised.

As is generally known the $30,000 Rockefeller gift was promised on condition that the college debt of $30,000 be provided for and that $150,000 in addition be raised. These three items make a total of $280,000. Counting the Rockefeller gift as part of the subscriptions President Granville has now secured $160,000 since taking up his duties as president of the college.

While this financial campaign has been so vigorously pushed outside of Gettysburg the town itself has come forward handsomely with generous subscriptions and, up to the present time, its citizens have promised $18,000 which it is confidently believed will be further increased until it reaches the $15,000 mark.

An unusual way of securing some of the funds for the endowment has been followed by Dr. Granville and those who are working with him. Sunday Schools have been asked to pledge themselves for five annual subscriptions and a number have come forward promising to give annually for that period $25, $50, $75 or $100. This, it can readily be seen, will soon provide quite a handsome sum, and already has contributed materially to the success of the big campaign.

The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Mabel Detter.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and valuable presents.

ODD WIRE TROUBLE

For the past several years when the wind was blowing William Day, tenant on the Butt farm in Huntingdon township, had considerable trouble to talk over his telephone. At different times linemen were sent out from Gettysburg to remedy the defect but were unable to locate the trouble until one day this week when Albert Finkle and Mr. Day followed the line through the thicket above Norvel Foulk's farm. One of the wires was found imbedded in the heart of a six inch vine which had grown around the sapling and when the wind came from the north or south caused it to pull taut and almost cut off all communication over the line.

The regular October meeting of the School Board was held on Thursday evening in the Arbitration Room at the Court House and much business was transacted.

The attention of the repair committee was called to needs in the colored school building and the requests from the janitor for new window blinds and renewed spouting were given into the hands of that committee.

Treasurer Officer Utz reported on conditions and said that there was very little trouble so far this year, only one case of persistent truancy being reported.

Upon suggestion of Prof. Borgeon it was decided to close the public schools of the town on the afternoon of Friday, October 18, to allow the teachers and any scholars who may wish to attend, to be present at the entertainment in the Wizard Theatre which will be given during the state meeting of the Mothers' Congress and Parent Teachers' Associations.

The Board was advised that Murray Washburn, of Harrisburg, was here and ready to take up his duties as manual training instructor as soon as the equipment arrives. Mr. Washburn will conduct this course along with his work as a student at college and will receive $25 per month compensation.

MORGAN GAVE $150,000 FORT. R.

Financier Tells of Campaign Contributions in 1904.

GAVE $30,000 FOR TAFT

New York Financier Flatly Denies Roosevelt Made Telephone Demand For Money.

Washington, Oct. 4. — J. Pierpont Morgan, appearing for the first time in many years on a witness stand, told the senate sub-committee probing campaign funds that he had given $150,000 to the Republican campaign of 1904, when Roosevelt was the nominee, and $30,000 to the Republican campaign of 1908, when President Taft was elected.

In an hour's questioning Mr. Morgan, who was a cheerful and willing witness, denied emphatically the charge by Charles Edward Russell, of New York, that, while Wayne MacVeagh was in Morgan's office, Roosevelt, then president, had telephoned to Morgan demanding a campaign contribution; declared he never had any communication with President Roosevelt; and asserted that he knew of no conferences among financial men in 1904 or 1908 to agree on supporting Republican or Democratic presidential candidates.

The Russell statement, Mr. Morgan declared, was "fiction made out of whole cloth." The same tale has been denied in Philadelphia by Wayne MacVeagh.

Morgan confirmed the testimony of George R. Sheldon that he had contributed $100,000 to the Republican national fund of 1904, and added that he later gave $50,000 to the so-called "Harriman fund" of $240,000. He understood that this went to the state committee through the national committee.

Morgan asserted that no contribution had ever been given by his firm or himself with the idea of obtaining interested in the 1904 campaign. He said, solely for the welfare of the country and the people at large. That was the only interest, he said, that had guided him in making contributions to political parties.

If, as has been stated, the fortune of Mr. Morgan increases by $3 every time the clock ticks, the financier contributed $9720 worth of his time to the probers, for he was on the witness stand just fifty-four minutes.

His examination was of especial interest aside from the political importance of much of his testimony. In response to one question, he said of J. P. Morgan & Co., "I am the firm."

Again, he said, that his contributions were for what he believed to be the good of the country, and dealt in a bit of philosophy by saying that he sometimes wanted what was not good for him, and therefore realized that what he personally might want was not necessarily for the nation's welfare.

He left the witness stand to sit nearer the members of the committee so he could hear more clearly, and frequently joined in the laughter that some reply he made would arouse.

He said that the solicitors of his second contribution of $50,000 in 1904 had not set the amount at that figure. They "wanted more," he said. Neither had they expressed gratitude, for that was a "virtue" they lacked. They wanted all they could get, he said, and had placed no limit on the amount to be raised in the campaign.

Judge Charles H. Duell, of New York, who was assistant treasurer in 1904, caused a sensation when he followed Morgan on the stand by declaring that three insurance companies in New York city gave $50,000 each to Roosevelt's 1904 campaign fund.

Mr. Duell said that he knew nothing of a contribution in 1904 of $100,000 from John D. Archbold, but he thought that the late H. H. Rogers had given $100,000 that year. He also understood that the Harriman fund had been collected for the state committee, although contributed through the national committee.

ARCHBOLD SAYS T. R. KNEW

Declares He Was Fully Aware of Purpose of $100,000 Contribution.

New York, Oct. 4.—John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil company, arrived from Europe on the Majestic. Archbold repeated his statement made before the senate campaign fund investigating committee, that the Standard Oil company in 1904 contributed $100,000 to the Roosevelt campaign.

"I still stand by what I said," he declared. "There is absolutely no question as to the giving of the money and absolutely no question as to our understanding. Mr. Roosevelt knew that the money was given and the purpose for which it was given."

Beats Man Who Shoots at Him. Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 4.—When Patrick Haley drew a revolver and began firing at Mayor James H. Potts, of Frankfort, the mayor charged him, knocked him down twice and had thoroughly subdued him when Haley was placed under arrest. One bullet had lodged in the mayor's leg and another passed through his hat. He had represented Haley's wife in a divorce suit.

TAFT BARRED IN CALIFORNIA

Supreme Court Decides His Electors Cannot Go on the Ticket.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 4.—President Taft will be without representation from California in the electoral college, and not a vote for him can be cast in California unless it be written in, according to a decision by the state supreme court.

Under the decision electors pledged to Taft cannot appear on the November ballot as Republicans. The issue was presented in the form of an application by attorneys for the Taft Republican organization, seeking to have made permanent an alternative writ obtained some days ago, directing Frank C. Jordan, secretary of state, to designate on the ballot as Republicans the presidential electors named by the Taft adherents.

Attorney General Webb argued that the Republican party of California was not affiliated with the national party and was in no wise bound by the decisions of the Chicago convention; that the petition of the Taft men was supported by insufficient evidence, and that the court lacked jurisdiction.

NINE DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK

Scores Hurt When Express Jumps the Track.

WOODEN PARLOR CARS BURN

Most of the Victims Were Burned to Death and Full List May Never Be Known.

Westport, Conn., Oct. 4. — Nine persons were killed, most of them being burned to death; about forty were injured, twenty of them seriously, when the second section of the Boston express jumped the tracks of the New Haven railroad a short distance west of here.

It will not be until those who know their friends and relatives were on the ill-fated train have all come forward to speak, perhaps, that the full death list will be known. Between the number of charred bodies now in the undertaking establishments of the town, the number of injured and the number of survivors who have been sent to their homes there is a great discrepancy.

The dead may equal twice nine the missing may be many more, for the cars which were in the wreck are burned to ashes. They were wooden cars, and the hot coals of the engine over which they were jammed, exploding the Pintsch gas with which they were lighted, caused the fire to spread from one end of the affected train to the other almost in a twinkling. As it turned out, only the parlor cars were destroyed, and only those riding in the parlor cars were burned or injured, with the exception of the engineer, fireman and other trainmen, one mail clerk and his assistant.

The train was twelve minutes late when it reached Bridgeport, and George W. Clark, the engineer, who has paid for any mistake he may have made with his life, left with the idea of making up the time by the time he should reach New York. He increased his speed at once, and by the time he was well clear of Bridgeport he was traveling very close to sixty miles an hour.

To the west of the station about 200 yards the old Boston post road passes under the tracks with other streets of the town, and that elevates the tracks about twenty-five feet above the street level.

The ill-fated train had just past the station and had struck the bridge. Just ahead of it was the signal which warned the engineer to slow down from the speed he was going, so that there might be no accident at the cross over. Apparently this was never heeded. There was no slowing down and as the little front wheels of the engine struck the first frog they were slipped to one side, the great drivers were wrenched off the rail and the big engine went plunging over the roadbed with a roar and a jolt that was communicated throughout the entire train.

The tender was hurled upon the locomotive, killing the engineer and fireman. The four parlor cars were catapulted upon the mass and instantly took fire.

The young man was making repairs, and had been warned about the electric line, which carried a large voltage. He seized the wire with one hand and was dead before he could be released.

BALKAN STATES TO PRESENT JOINT NOTE

Powers to Pass on Demands on Turkey.

London, Oct. 4.—No improvement in the Balkan situation is evident. The delivery of the collective note of the Balkan states to the Porte will be delayed until it is first passed by the powers, to whom it will be given for examination.

The slowness with which diplomacy is moving in this matter, and the fact that a week's grace is given to Turkey to comply with the demands of the note, tended to make the public more optimistic. Many diplomats, however, believe the Turks will prefer the hazard of a war to complying with the demand for autonomy of her European provinces.

Severe fighting between Turkish and Serbian troops is reported to have occurred on the southeastern frontier of Serbia in a dispatch from Belgrade received by a news agency in London. The Turks are said to have lost thirty killed and many wounded, while the Serbian casualties are given as two killed and eighteen wounded.

A detachment of 300 Turkish soldiers, according to the dispatch, had crossed into Serbian territory, and in the neighborhoods of the towns of Vranja encountered a body of Serbian infantry. The engagement ensued, and lasted an hour.

A detachment of Turkish guards attacked the Montenegrin guards on the border in the Berana district. The Montenegrins did not reply to the firing and the Turks then retired.

The order for a general mobilization in Montenegro has been received with the utmost enthusiasm throughout the country. King Nicholas and his ministers have received a number of telegrams urging them to begin hostilities immediately against Turkey.

The draft of the collective note to be presented to Turkey was received by all the Balkan legations. The note demands an autonomy for Macedonia, Albania and Old Serbia, which shall be at least equal to that enjoyed by Crete under the protecting powers.

AVIATOR KILLED AT TRENTON FAIR

Charles Walsh Falls 2000 Feet in Aeroplane.

5000 PEOPLE SEE ACCIDENT

Breaking of Lower Plane While Gliding Downward Caused the Disaster. Souvenir Hunters Carry Off Biplane.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 4.—Falling from a height of nearly 2000 feet in a Curtiss biplane, Charles F. Walsh, of San Diego, Cal., was dashed to death in the sight of 5000 people at the interstate fair here.

The breaking of the lower plane as Walsh was beginning a circular downward flight was the cause of the accident. Walsh was breathing faintly when the first person reached him, but died almost immediately afterward.

The flight of Walsh was undertaken in the fact of a fairly brisk breeze, which swept over the big enclosure at the grounds. It was announced that the wind was strong for aerial work, but that Walsh would attempt a flight. His ascent was accomplished without incident, and after rising to a height of about 2500 feet he made a long downward glide, which brought him directly over the field in front of the grand stand. Then he began the circular maneuver, the strain from which was probably responsible for the collapse of the under plane.

Through glasses Walsh could be seen struggling to right the biplane, which tipped almost on its end, then partially righted itself and made a glide of perhaps 1000 feet before the final collapse of both planes started it hurtling toward the earth.

From that moment Walsh was practically obscured from view in the tangled folds of the biplane, which came down with terrific speed, landing in the middle of a large open field. His neck was dislocated, his chin forced completely out of place and many bones were broken. His legs were pinned under the motor.

Hardly had his body been extricated when hundreds of spectators pounced upon the biplane and literally tore it apart in their madness to obtain souvenirs. When the crowd had finished its work the machinery was all that was left.

Walsh was about twenty-four years old, and was survived by a widow and two children. He was a pupil of Lincoln Meachey and had been an aviator for about three years.

During the first three days of the Trenton fair Walsh had thrilled the spectators by his daring and seemingly had perfect control of his biplane.

ONE GREAT OPPORTUNITY IS PASSED UP,

Fred Parent, Baltimore Player, Who Overlooked Chance to Make Triple Play Unassisted.

Fred Parent, of the Orioles, passed up a chance to make an unassisted triple play in a recent game with Newark, when he had the thing all laid out for him. He said he didn't care, but it is suspected he didn't realize his opportunity until it was too late. Billy Zimmerman was on second and Eddie Zimmerman was on first when Higgins hit a liner above Parent's head. He made a leap and caught the ball. The two Zimmermans were both racing toward home and all Parent had to do was to step on second to get one and tag the other when he attempted to tag back, but instead he tossed the ball to Matzel at second, who relayed to Schmidt at first to complete the three out. Parent was within five feet of second base at the time he executed the play.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND

Veau Gregg is the most consistent winner for the Naps.

Miller Huggins is playing a great game at second for the St. Louis Cardinals.

A chap named Sloan has been sold to the Browns. He came from Bristol, Tenn.

The crying need of the Naps is catchers, according to one of the Cleveland exchanges.

Charlie Wagner has had his eye on the ball this season. He has hit it on an average of one bingle a game.

Tommy McMillan has been given the shortstop position of the all-star Eastern league team by a Baltimore paper.

Beals Becker of the Glants, in six batting efforts recently, got three bases on balls, and three blows on the head.

The only club in the American association this year that is making anything like good money is the Minneapolis Millers.

Pitcher Packard of the Columbus team of the American association is regarded as one of the best pitchers in that league.

Munsel, a pitcher who was tried out by the Glants last spring, has been sold to the Sacramento club by the Buffalo team of the International league.

WHY TOM LEACH WAS LET GO

Manager Clarke Compelled to Trade Clever Player to Make Way Clear for Honus Wagner.

The cat is out of the bag as to why Fred Clarke, manager of the Pirates, apparently had to show his lack of sagacity as a big league team manager and be outdone in a trade when he let Tommy Leach and Lefty Leifeld go to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for King Cole and Sol Hofman.

According to a member of the Pirates, this trade or some other trade by which Tommy Leach would get out of the Pirates ranks was absolutely necessary to prevent constant internal dissensions and save the scalp of Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates. Also it had to be done in order that Hans Wagner may be manager of the Pirates next season.

This Pittsburgh player declares that some time ago Dreyfuss promised Tommy Leach he would succeed Clarke when the present manager of the Pirates retired.

At the beginning of the present season Clarke told Dreyfuss he would retire at the end of 1912. Clarke also told Hans Wagner, and the big Dutchman thought he would like to be manager of the Pirates for at least one season. He went to Dreyfuss, and Dreyfuss told Wagner he would succeed Clarke. This left Dreyfuss with two prospective managers on his hands—the fighting Tommy and the big Dutchman.

CAMNITZ IS "ONE BEST BET"

Pitcher Has Been Mainstay of Pittsburgh Pirates for Some Years—Has Done Great Work.

Howard Camnitz, the Pittsburgh pitcher, is having a good season on the diamond. Camnitz has long been regarded as one of the best twirlers in the National league, but his showing has been one of the mainstays of the Pirates for a number of years, but has not shone with the brilliancy of other pitchers. This year he is the one best bet of the Pirates on the firing line.

Flick is Released. Outfielder Elmer Flick has been given his unconditional release by the Toledo club. Flick has played in organized baseball for more than seventeen seasons. He was with the Philadelphia Nationals, Athletics and Naps in the big leagues, and is one of the few major leaguers who can boast of a batting average better than 300 for five consecutive seasons.

Toledo has also purchased Pitchers Frost and Williams from the Flint (Mich.) club.

McAleer After "Farm." It is reported that President McAleer of the Red Sox has about concluded negotiations for the purchase of the Youngstown club of the Central league. McAleer desires to use this club as a farm. While Boston was playing in St. Louis, McAleer spent the time in Youngstown and also was there much of the time when the team was in Cleveland. It is believed that he completed arrangements.

Giants' New Pitcher. Larne Kirby, the pitcher bought by the Giants from the Traverse City team of the Michigan State league, has won sixteen out of eighteen games this season. McGraw has a liking for the M. S. league. He dug Fred Merkle out of those depths.

RADIUM CAUSE OF CHANGES

Mineral Has Revolutionized Geologist's World on Account of Its Intensity of Heat.

Radium has revolutionized the geologist's world. Before its discovery the supplies of heat furnished by chemical changes in the earth were considered insignificant. And nothing was thought to replace the heat which flows from the hot interior of the earth to the colder crust.

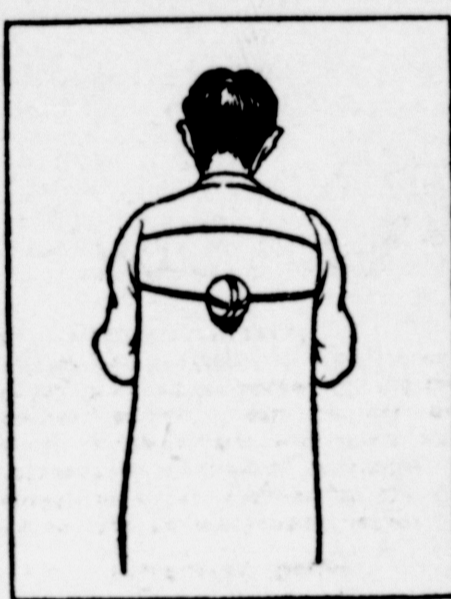

Now when the earth first solidified it only possessed a certain amount of capital in the form of heat, and if it is continually spending this capital and not gaining any fresh heat, it is evident that the process cannot have been going on for more than a certain number of years or the earth would be colder than it is; less than a hundred million, as estimated by Lord Kelvin. Though the quantity of radium in the earth is thought to be only about five grams in a cube whose side is 100 miles, yet the amount of heat given out by this small quantity of radium is so great that it is more than enough to replace the heat which flows from the inside to the outside of the earth.

The radium gives out so much heat that we do not quite know what to do with it, for if there were as much radium throughout the interior of the earth as there is in its crust the temperature would increase much more rapidly than it does as we descend below the earth's surface. If radium behaves in the interior of the earth as it does at the surface, rocks similar to those in the earth's crust cannot extend to a depth of more than 45 miles below the surface.

WAY TO PREVENT BAD HABIT

Bell Arranged With Straps and Harness Between Shoulders Will Effectively Stop Snoring.

Snoring is undoubtedly a bad habit. Unfortunately, it is almost impossible for the person afflicted with this objectionable habit to know when he is emitting noisy nasal tones. It is well known that if the sufferer from this habit can be prevented from resting on his back while sleeping he will not snore. A Chicago man has devised a very ingenious but harmless contrivance that he claims will effect a speedy cure. It is shown in the accompanying illustration, consisting of a ball, which is fitted with straps and harness, so that it will be just between the shoulder blades. Should the wearer roll over on his back he will be immediately awakened.

DAINTY DISH FROM LITTLE BITS. When a large amount of bread has been sliced, do not allow it to dry out, but pack in a jar and cover with a cloth wrung quite dry out of hot water, then place a plate over them and the bread will keep fresh. Sandwiches may be made and served at luncheon or supper and are always a welcome addition to the meal.

If you have a bit of boiled frosting left, add a few nuts and chopped raisins and drop on wafers. Bake in a hot oven until brown. These are nice with a salad.
